The Cost Of Ignorance: What You Don't Know About Performance-Based Insurance Can Save Your Company Millions

Synopsis

There is drama in insurance. THE COST OF IGNORANCE is a riveting novella by business insurance veteran Robert Phelan. The story punctures confusing insurance jargon and introduces a powerful new concept for middle-market companies: a little-known form of insurance known as Performance-Based Insurance™ (PBI) costs less and can save a company millions of dollars over time. The tale is told through the misadventures of Timothy Franculli, owner of a wholesale manufacturing company that is about to go broke because of escalating liability and health insurance costs. Timothy attends a conference in San Francisco where he runs into an old friend and learns about PBI, a type of insurance that could save his struggling company hundreds of thousands of dollars per year. But there is a catch. Typically, in order to qualify for PBI, a company must have a strong safety culture where worker injuries and accidents are controlled and reasonably predictable. Franculli has a lot of catching up to do after a series of employee injuries the year before caused his worker's compensation premiums to skyrocket 40 percent.

Q & A WITH THE AUTHOR
Q: Why haven't I heard of PBI?
A: You may have heard of similar concepts with different names. I came up with Performance-based Insurance™ to simplify all the insurance jargon. With PBI, instead of paying some of your premium to subsidize the losses of others, the premium you pay is based strictly on your company's own "performance." For financially stable, well-run companies with a strong safety culture, PBI is the only program they should consider. Almost all large, sophisticated companies use some form of PBI.

Q: What is PBI?
A: PBI comprises all the forms of insurance where the ultimate cost is variable and based on performance. Conventional insurance is called "Guaranteed Cost." You pay a fixed premium regardless of your claim levels. If you have a PBI program, 30-40% of the premium is fixed and the rest is allocated to a loss fund. Whatever you don't use in the loss fund is returned to you. However, if the loss fund is inadequate, you may have to pay more than Guaranteed Cost. Safe, well-managed companies can reasonably save 25% on average.

Q: What's the biggest advantage of PBI vs. Guaranteed Cost?
A: You control the premium you pay. No more unpredictable premium swings, no more subsidizing the losses of unsafe companies and no more going through the hassle of going out to bid. If you maintain very low loss levels you could literally get a 50% discount. Think of it as getting every third year for free.
